Europe under siege of crises - what next?

Welcome to the first newsletter of February!

Last week, we hosted a debate "EU-Pacific Talks: Europe and the Indo-Pacific: Migration and demographic changes". The debaters discussed the links between migration and demographic change against the background of Europe and Japan. If you missed the meeting online, you can watch the full recording here.

In the previous days we published new documents. A policy paper by researcher Klára Votavová from the EUROPEUM Just Europe workstream, which focuses on the social aspects of the European Union, deals with problems associated with the digitalisation of the Czech labour market. Further publications, including links, can be found below.

We look forward to seeing you in the next newsletter!

The graphic features a central text block flanked by two images of the European Union flag. The left image shows the flag in front of a modern building, while the right image shows the flag against a background of a grid pattern. The text in the center reads: "POLICY PAPER", "EU REGULATION OF WORKPLACE ALGORITHMS IN THE CZECH REPUBLIC: CLIMBING UP THE INNOVATION LADDER AT THE EXPENSE OF WORKERS?", and "KLÁRA VOTAVOVÁ" with a small circular portrait of the author.

Policy Paper | EU Regulation of Workplace Algorithms in the Czech Republic: Climbing up the Innovation Ladder at the Expense of Workers?

In the document, researcher Klára Votavová addresses the dilemmas and challenges associated with the regulation of digitalization and automation in the Czech labour market.

Report | Monitoring of the EU's Green Policies: Perceptions and Narratives in the Czech and Slovak Information Space

In the report, junior researcher Tatiana Mindeková summarizes the results of an analysis of the narratives disseminated about the Green Deal in the Czech and Slovak information scene.
